Prague offers several easy and convenient ways to get around. The city has an excellent public transport system with metro lines, trams, and buses that are reliable and affordable. Walking is also a great option, especially in the historic center where many attractions are close to each other. Taxis and ride-sharing services like Uber and Bolt are widely available, and for a more active choice, you can rent bikes throughout the city.

4.1 From the Airport

At Prague Airport, Terminal 1 is used for flights outside the Schengen Area, while Terminal 2 serves flights within the Schengen Area. When arriving or departing, make sure to check your terminal in advance, as passport control procedures differ between the two.

4.3 Public Transportation

Public transportation in Prague is reliable, affordable, and easy to use. The system includes metro lines, trams, and buses that cover the entire city and run frequently throughout the day.

We highly recommend the PID Lítačka app, which makes using public transportation in Prague much easier. The app allows you to buy tickets, plan routes, and check real-time connections for metro, trams, and buses all in one place: app.pidlitacka.cz

4.4 Taxis in Prague

Taking a taxi in Prague is quite comfortable and convenient, offering door-to-door service. Popular options include traditional taxis as well as apps like Bolt and Uber, which provide easy booking and transparent pricing. However, traffic can be heavy, especially during rush hours or in the city center, so travel times may be longer than expected.

4.5 Travelling by Car

Just like any metropolis, Prague is struggling with an increase in the number of cars on the road and a lack of parking spaces. That is why going by car is only recommended if you travel long distances or outside the city.

Information on parking zones in Prague can be found at parking.praha.eu/en/parking-options-in-prague/parking-in-zones.

Parking can be paid either at the parking machines located on the streets or conveniently through the PID Lítačka mobile app. Both options allow you to purchase a valid parking ticket for the selected parking zone.

Blue parking zones are intended primarily for residents and permit holders, with very limited options for short-term visitor parking. Purple zones are generally less expensive and are available to visitors; in some areas they are even free during weekends. However, parking in purple zones is typically limited to a maximum stay of 24 hours.

It is advisable to make use of P+R car parks where you can leave your car for the whole day for a good price. Some P+R car parks are located directly at terminal metro stations, others can be found in key places convenient for drivers. You can find an up-to-date list of P+R car parks here parking.praha.eu/en/parking-options-in-prague/pr-park-ride

P+R Kongresové centrum Praha - Jih 1 is conveniently located by the Vyšehrad metro station on Line C, just one metro stop from the apartment.

4.6 Rent a Bike

Prague has several bike-sharing options, such as Rekola and Nextbike, which allow you to pick up and drop off bikes at multiple locations across the city. Keep in mind, however, that Prague is quite hilly in some areas, and the cycling infrastructure isn't as developed as in other European cities, so it's best to plan your route carefully and be prepared for some uphill rides.

In Prague, you can use credit cards in most places, from restaurants and shops to attractions, making it very convenient for travelers. However, there are a few exceptions, particularly some smaller pubs, where only cash is accepted. If you need to exchange cash, it's important to familiarize yourself with how Czech koruna (CZK) banknotes look and only use verified exchange offices. Avoid exchanging money in public or with strangers on the street, as this can be risky.
